She is going to Wellesley college to be a professor. In that great college for women most of the chairs are filled by women. Professor Katherine Coman of Wellesley is going abroad. It is her chair of history and political economy that Miss Hardy is to fill. The regents of Wellesley say that upon Miss Conan's return a special department of political economy will be organized in recognition of the demands of women for more instruction in this science, and of this Miss Hardy will be invited to become the hend. She will enter on the duties of her new office in October, the beginning of the scholastic year.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A New Nation.

A New Nation.

Portugal has recognized the American principle of local self government in granting autonomy to the Azores and that interesting little community of rather less than 300,000 people will soon be legislating for itself, doubtless at Angra, the almost unknown capital of the group. The independent blue flag, with the white hawk and the nine stars, displayed by the islanders of San Miguel when the good news came from Lisbon, contains a sort of brief history of the group. It tells that there are nine islands sown thick in the blue midocean, and the emblematic hawk reminds the world that the name Acor, Portuguese for hawk, was conforred on the islands because of the great number of those birds found there by the navigator sent out from Portugal to take possession of the group. sent out from Portugal to take pos of the group.-New York Sun.

"Do you really expect to attain such a triumph?" was asked.

"Oh, yes," replied electricity's prophet.
"If, as I said, I can find an agency that will stand so gigantic a current. Eight million voits can be created, but wires which we now use would be turned to askes upon the first contact with a current of this power. We don't know yet what electricity really is. When we do know and the secrets of its mysterious power are at the disposal of man, then inventors will startle the world."—New York Press.

He Has Sympathizers.

Here's a man down in Maine who complains because, not having an income of $4,000, he is deprived of contributing anything to the income tax. However, he can console himself with the reflection that there are a great many millions of people in this country who are likely to undergo the came deprivation. It is not given to everybody to be happy under our form of government.—Boston Herald.
